

NAVAL HONORS TO ADMIRAL

Harrington Pays a Visit to the Brazilian Training Cruiser.

FREE BEER AND FREE JULEPS

Republicans Had Alluring Invitations From Virginia Cities.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., June 23.—Mayor J. G. Riddick has announced that he does not intend to resign because his candidate, J. O. Reid, was defeated in the recent election, and because the vote showed a lack of confidence in his administration. He says he will serve out his term.

The Spanish steamship Gaditano, recently ashore off Port Ingles, on the Florida coast, arrived here to-day in tow of the Merritt and Chapman wrecking steamer Rescue, and is anchored in the inner harbor awaiting disposition. She is in good condition.

ADMIRAL P. HARRINGTON

Admiral P. H. Harrington, commandant of the navy yard, was welcomed aboard the Brazilian cruiser Benjamin Constant, now in this harbor, with naval honors. She is used as a training ship, and commanded by Captain Midea. She is fitted with modern guns, torpedo equipment, wireless telegraphic apparatus, and all this is shown to visitors without reserve. The Benjamin Constant, which is named after the first president of the republic of Brazil, is 203 feet long, 72 feet beam, with displacement of 2,750 tons. She was built at La Seyne ship yard, Toulon, France, in 1893. Her armament consists of four 6-inch, or 15 centimetre guns, mounted on the upper deck; eight 4.7-inch rifles, which protrude from her ports; four 6-pound Hotchkiss guns for scouting and defense; and two 1.1-inch Maxim Nordenfolt model—twenty-two guns in all. The twelve larger guns are Elswick, Armstrong English make. The wireless system aboard is German.

ALLURING INVITATIONS

Mr. Floyd Hughes, who attended the meeting of the Republican State Committee in Lynchburg Wednesday night, says the Republican vote this fall is going to be a surprise one. Some of the Republican committeemen entertain hopes of carrying the State this fall. Richmond, Norfolk, Roanoke, and Newport News each wanted the convention. Each of the cities sent a delegation to ask for it, and each of them offered us a free hall, free beer and free juleps, but we could not accept all of the invitations, but we did take one.

THE CONTEST

There seems to be no solution of the factional tangle in the Democratic party in Portsmouth. S. C. Montague, chairman, and Joseph H. Saunders, secretary, were put out of the City Executive Committee by the voters last night, but they refuse to go, and the majority demands the books and the ballots from the secretary, and declares that none of the bills of the committee shall be paid without the sanction of the majority officers. W. J. Williams and F. K. Vorce.

TRIAL FOR FORGERS

O. M. Baldinger, John C. Johnson, obtained a new trial in the Corporation Court to-day, and C. G. Mayes, as accessory, was postponed till next month. Baldinger was convicted of forging transfers for voters from this city to Newport News without the advice and consent of the voters themselves. He was tried and convicted on one of the six charges.

THE MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL

The motion for a new trial was allowed by Judge Allan R. Hanchel on the ground that the assistant prosecuting attorney had commented in his argument to the jury on the failure of the prisoner to testify in his own behalf. The bill, which had been $2,500, was increased to $5,000. The expectation that Baldinger would confess on the political leaders who incited him to the felony and the fraud in the elections has not been realized. Both of the men are firm in the belief that they will escape punishment, and the money for their defense is plentiful.

JUDGE MANN IN BERKLEY

Judge William H. Mann, candidate for Governor, was in Norfolk part of the day, but spent the greater part of his time in Berkeley, where he says he has a strong following. He said in an interview on his race: "In spite of the fact that my Democracy is being questioned, I am a straight-out Democrat; always have been and always will be."

AT A MEETING OF THE ROYAL ARCADE

Council of Portsmouth strong resolutions were passed condemning the raising of the rates on old men and demanding that the Supreme Council shall meet to reconsider a subject "so vital for the preservation of the fundamental principles of the order."

PETERSON-MATTHEWS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LAWRENCEVILLE, VA., June 23.—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Matthews, near Charles Hope, was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony yesterday at 10 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Emma Sue, was led to the altar by Mr. William A. Peterson. The bride and groom are very popular in this section, which was attested by the many handsome and useful presents they received. They left in the evening for an extended bridal tour.

Placed in Jail

(By Associated Press.)
TAMPA, FLA., June 23.—Following the verdict of the coroner's jury, charging them with the assassination of Oscar Elton, at Plant City, Samuel and J. E. Wilder, members of one of the county's most prominent families, were placed in the county jail to-night.

UNSIGHTLY BALD SPOT

Caused by Sores on Neck. Merciless Itching For Two Years Made Him Wild.

ANOTHER CURE BY CUTICURA

"For two years my neck was covered with sores, the humor spreading to my hair, which fell out, leaving an unsightly bald spot, and the sores, inflammation, and merciless itching made me wild. Friends advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after a few applications the torment subsided, to my great joy. The sores soon disappeared, and my hair grew again, as thick and healthy as ever. I shall always recommend Cuticura," (signed) H. J. Spaulding, 104 W. 104th St., New York City."

RETURNED HOME IN BATHING SUITS

Members of Methodist Sunday School Had Clothes Stolen.

WHILE BATHING IN THE SURF

Matoaca Methodist Church Planning Big Fourth of July Event.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PETERSBURG, VA., June 23.—Three well known Petersburg youths landed home last night from Ocean View in their bathing suits. This costume was involuntary, and not by choice. Their clothes were stolen while they were in the surf, and the abbreviated style of their return garments were better suited to the hot weather than public appearance on the street. They went to Norfolk and Ocean View with the Wesley Methodist Church excursion. The party returned last night, after a great time at the seashore and a first-rate ball game in Norfolk between Petersburg and Norfolk teams, in which the latter city won by a score of three to nothing.

OVERHAUL GAS WORKS

Extensive improvements are being made at the gas works by the Petersburg Gas and Light Company, which is overhauling the entire plant.

The members of Matoaca Methodist Episcopal Church are planning an extensive entertainment on the Fourth of July to celebrate the completion of the improvements to the church, which has been well-nigh rebuilt. A new room has been added, roof and steeple rebuilt, new organ and steam heating plant put in, and the whole church refurnished and painted, inside and out. The church raised several thousand dollars for this work. Rev. John W. Euro is the pastor. All former pastors will be invited to the entertainment on the Fourth, with many other guests, including the local order of Red Men, Knights of Pythias, Junior Order United American Mechanics and Petersburg Grays.

A military drill of young ladies, in command of Captain S. A. Mann, Jr., will be a feature of the occasion. A competitive drill is also being arranged. ENGINE DERAILLED
The engine to the Atlantic Coast Line passenger train No. 41, running from Richmond to Goldsboro, North Carolina, ran off the track here this afternoon at the Appomattox depot. Only the engine was derailed, and no one was injured, the train resuming its trip after a forty minutes' delay.

Charlotte, 6; Salisbury, 2.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 23.—Charlotte defeated Salisbury-Spencer to-day in an easy game of ball by a score of 6 to 2. For two innings both sides went to pieces and the game became one-sided. A hot line barked Whipple's whin in the fifth inning and the visitors substituted Cook. The locals tried out a new pitcher, Leake, who made good. Batteries: Charlotte—Leake and Reed; Salisbury—Spencer, Whipple, Cook and Bontly.

NEW MINISTER TO BETH ABABAH

Rev. Lewis Bernstein Begins His Temporary Pastorate Here.

"GOD'S TURNPIKE" HIS THEME

Preacher's Eloquent Sermon on This Fruitful Subject. Good Music.

A large congregation attended Beth Ababah Temple last night, despite the threatening weather to hear the first sermon of Mr. Louis Bernstein, of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, who will fill this pulpit during the absence of Rabbi E. N. Calisch, now in Europe.

The music furnished by the volunteer choir, assisted by Mr. Wilkes, baritone, and Miss Heller, soprano, was appropriate and beautiful. The discourse of Mr. Bernstein was very pleasing to the congregation. It was an eloquent discussion of the fruitful theme "God's Temple." He said in part:

"Standing in this pulpit and viewing this magnificent structure, splendid in design, beautiful in form, dedicated to the God, who has been Israel's guiding star throughout all the generations of man, I cannot help but think of those wonderfully thrilling words of the greatest of all the prophets, Jeremiah, the man of sorrows, the prophet of woe.

"The temple of the Lord; the temple of the Lord; the temple of the Lord is this."

"But it is association rather by contrast than by similarity that recalls these words to my mind. For Jeremiah when he gave vent to this expression, did so in all the grandeur of his denunciatory wrath. The temple had been prepared by all manner of excess and abomination, the structure over which the God of Israel had yearningly spread his protective power, and in which had centered for so long the hope of this people, had been converted into a worse than mockery, and yet blind to the proper use of such an institution, the people still trusted in it, thinking in their vain, silly manner, that from it might come protection. Had they not offered the regular sacrifice; had they not kept the perpetual light forever burning; had they not to the full letter of the law observed every ritualistic ceremony? What was it, then, that this God demanded in order that this wrath might be appeased?"

"The answer to this question has been given by each one of the prophets, but best of all perhaps, by the prophet Micah (Mic. vi:8). 'He hath told thee, of man, what is good and what the Lord doth require of thee. To do justice, to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God.' Not sacrifice, and not burnt offerings, not ceremonial alone, but sincerity of heart and sincerity of purpose, inward religious consciousness, not merely outward form.

House of God.

"A temple is a house of worship, a temple should be the home of God, as should be all the world, the world which says one of our sages is a part of God, and not He a part of it. Be it ever so beautiful, be it costly as it may, ornamented with all the embellishments that money can buy, if it be not filled with the spirit of holy reverence, if it breathes not in its every corner the very health of Judaism's divine inspiration, then is it no worthy to be called the temple of God."

"I glance about me and I see on every hand the signs of the builders' art. I notice beauty in its every detail, but more than this, finer, grander, nobler than all this, I see before me, the most admirably conceived object of all creation—man. All this in the body but looking up across my mental horizon, rising as though from the mists of dim antiquity, with warning hands raised in mute appeal, I see the Prophet Jeremiah and from his lips like clarion notes, there sounds in my ears the message I bring you to-night: 'The temple of the Lord; the temple of the Lord; the temple of the Lord is this.'"

Religious Community.

"I am told by your beloved rabbi, whose place I am called upon so inadequately to fill, that this is a highly religious community, a compliment to which none could be greater and yet one which entails vast responsibility. Noblesse oblige. Privilege implies responsibility. And it is a privilege to be termed truly religious. A stranger amongst you, but one who expects soon to know you well, I am tempted to let fall some brief views of mine regarding the responsibility of the Jew to-day in America."

"Never, never, I say in the history of Judaism, has there been demanded to the Jew, more of the steadfast spirit, more of the holy fervor of the priests, of the splendid enthusiasm and zeal of prophet, sage and preacher, than is to-day demanded of us by the American Jew. Attacked on every hand, accused of all manner of deeds and misdeeds, scorned, reviled and jeered at, American Judaism stands to-day before the bar of justice, awaiting, may now passing through its trial."

"What shall the judgment be? Yours the answer; yours the responsibility. Have we, as they say, lost all our Judaism? Have we forgotten the sacred duties handed down from the ages ago? Do the words of our sacred Book no longer inspire us as they did our fathers of old? Is the mercantile spirit entirely engrossing our attention at the expense of the one-time pride and boast of the Jew—love of home, love of man and love of God? Oh, would that every man and woman of you here to-night, would that every tongue prompted by a Jewish heart might rise and answer nay on every count! Every brick, every stone in this sacred edifice takes voice and echoes back to me, No, no, it cannot be; the Jew who for so many centuries has borne contempt and disgrace, persecution and despair for his religion's sake; the Jew now living in happiness and under freedom's sun—he shall forget his responsibility, sooner shall time be gathered in the tomb, uncounted and unnumbered, forever; sooner shall all things pass away, than such be the answer. Let who answer in the days to come what Beth Ababah has taken in the trial which now stares us in the face; let your record stand forth emblazoned on the page of time as one worthy the name given you—"a religious community."

Built It Lovingly.

"You have built this temple lovingly and assembly; you have sacrificed of it, and you are still working to make it yet grander, and yet more worthy. But remember well, my friends, that not merely your time and money spent in beautifying and paying for this structure; not merely this will make it worthy. High ends require high means. lofty ideals are inspired only by elevated motives. True beauty lies in true living and true acting. Truth is the be-all, end-all, the sum of all things; for by it must all high endeavor be guided. He who aspires to his own nation who pointed out that the Hebrew word for truth, the first letter was the initial letter of the alphabet, the middle letter the middle of the alphabet, and the last the final of the alphabet, implying that truth was the whole of life, the end of all our striving."

"And if this community but stand for truth; truth in its widest sense, and that is all-inclusive; truth in politics, truth in business, and truth in religion; then indeed will it justify itself and American Judaism; then, indeed, will it prove that this is a temple of the Lord, whence go forth noble purposes and holy resolves, whence issues the spirit of benevolence and righteousness; then shall you, 'be with Him a Kingdom of priests and a holy nation.'"

"Let all your aims be in accordance with this ideal; let all your activities be worthy; let your aspirations high, and worthy, and be with you, helping you ever to come nearer to the ideal, the practical ideal—that is the highest by man attainable."

CRIMINAL ASSAULT

Miss Perker Testifies Against Frank P. Oakes at Chatham.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHATHAM, VA., June 23.—Frank P. Oakes, commissioner of the revenue of the Fourth Circuit, District, for many years deputy treasurer and deputy sheriff, was to-day placed on trial for his life, charged with criminally assaulting Miss Peachie E. Perker in May. The prosecutrix was the star witness for the Commonwealth, and stated that Oakes came to her home, and finding her father and mother away, asked her to give him a list of her father's property. That Oakes enticed her into her home and assaulted her, she resisting at the time, but was afraid to run or make an outcry for fear of violence from her assailant.

The prisoner testified that the girl, after squeezing his hand when he bade her farewell, invited him into her home and continued to entice him, to which he yielded, and he became aware of her being a virgin, when he ceased.

Oakes is a married man and has several children and grandchildren. He is held in high esteem by the people generally. The prosecutrix is a good looking girl of nineteen.

Oakes is a near neighbor of Raleigh Dawson, from Pittsylvania, now incarcerated in the Lynchburg jail, charged with criminally assaulting a mute.

VIRGINIA COLLEGE.

Near Roanoke, Va., "The Magic City of the South," is located one of the most famous Southern colleges for young ladies—Virginia College. This institution is situated on a commanding elevation, with mountains towering on every side. Half a mile beyond city limits, remote from the noise and smoke of industrial activity, it enjoys the quiet, seclusion and freedom of country life, yet its pupils can avail themselves of city advantages when occasion arises. Electric cars run at frequent intervals.

Of the mental training, it should suffice to point out that students from thirty States are to be found here. Forthrightness of teaching, range of studies, equipment, Virginia College ranks very high. The new buildings have every modern improvement—steam heat, electric light, bath and toilet rooms on every floor. A campus of ten acres surrounds the college. Pupils have special conservatory advantages in music art and elocution. A well equipped library and a reading room are provided.

John Doe X His Mark

A man's mark is his honor. It stands for him and he stands for it. It's the old Saxon way of signifying good intentions.

The right to be protected in the exclusive use of a trade mark has been long recognized by the common law and enforced by the chancery courts of England and this country.

The Government puts its mark on a bond to give it value.

The National Biscuit Company puts its trade mark in red and white on each end of a package of biscuit, crackers and wafers to distinguish these products and to guarantee the quality, and it does.

To more clearly comprehend the real value of this trade mark, try packages of BUTTER THIN BISCUIT and LEMON SNAPS.

COMMANDER FOR THE CHARLESTON

Old Point College is to Have a Fine New Building.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., June 23.—Commander Herbert Winslow, son of the late Admiral Winslow, who commanded the famous old wooden frigate Kearsarge during the Civil War, has been assigned by the Navy Department to command the new protected cruiser Charleston, under construction at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company's plant. The Charleston leaves to-morrow for Boston and will be given her official trial off the Cape Anne course next Wednesday, but her commander was not assigned in time for him to make the trip up the coast on her, as the commanding officers of new war vessels usually do.

Commander Richard Henderson, stationed at the local shipyard as inspector of ordnance, has asked to be placed upon the retired list. He is a native of North Carolina.

James Randolph, a negro laborer, left overboard off Chesapeake and Ohio pier No. 8 last night and was drowned. At the fourth anniversary exercises of the Old Point College yesterday, it was announced that a new building to cost $20,000 would be erected for the college during the coming year. The present building will be used as a home for the teachers. The school is conducted by the Xaverian Brothers.

LOCAL REGATTA ON JAMES RIVER

work that is being done. Of course, there are many hardships to contend with, such as short hours, no training table and a limited number of applicants. The men are willing and seem anxious to learn, which is a great thing. I have between twenty and thirty applicants in training for the various crews, and I see no reason why the club should not send out winners.

"We will row in the national regatta in Baltimore on August 12th and 15th, and in the Middle States regatta on Labor Day, which will probably be held at Philadelphia."

In Active Training.

The following men are amongst those in active training:

Moore, Gordon, Michaels, Penick Shelton, Crawford, Davis, George Smith, Simpson, Williams, Betty, Bailey, Chamberlayne, Forrest, Kerse, and Sydney Smith.

The officers of the club are:

President, Hon. B. B. Crump. Vice-President, Mr. Gray Watson. Secretary, Mr. C. R. Crawford. Treasurer, Mr. Charles Burnett. Captain, Mr. Penick Shelton. First Mate, Mr. Edward Thomas. Second Mate, Mr. Harper Shelton. Third Mate, Mr. V. Moore.

The club has in the boat house one eight-oared shell, four four-oared gigs, one four-oared shell, three single sculls, six sliding seat lady's gigs, seven canoes, five fishing boats, one sail boat and three naphtha launches. On July 31st the new eight-oared shell now being built by Ruddock, of New York, will reach Richmond, and will be used for the races in Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Celebrate Anniversary.

The Virginia Boat Club will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary next year, for its organization dates back to 1876, when the old "Kanawha Boat Club" was founded, with a boat house upon the canal bank. Later the Olympic Club was founded, and later still the Kanawha and Olympia Clubs were united under the name of the Virginia Boat Club.

In the old days, when the races were held on the canal, Major Robert Stiles was one of the great oarsmen, as was Mr. McCleod.

There is a movement now on foot throughout the State to revive interest in racing, and it is said that the River Club, of the University of Virginia, the

The race for the "French Cup" was a great event in bygone years, and the craftsmen who contested for it then are anxious to see the contests continued.

Mr. French, of Fredericksburg, presented the handsome silver cup to the Virginia Rowing Association, with the provision that it should be rowed for by the clubs composing the association, and that it should remain in the possession of the winner until that crew was defeated. The second prize was a handsome silver vase, known as the "Fredericksburg Cup," which was presented to the association by the citizens of Fredericksburg.

This cup was last won, it is said, by the University School boat crew, of which
